CONNECTED
Connecting your school community

A new kind of school reporting system that considers the needs of all the school community.

Fragmented communication has been a bugbear in schools for years. SAS details are locked up for admin only or too hard for teachers to regularly access. Assessment details are fragmented across multiple teacher files and other information is buried in time table programs, written records or worse - lost all together.

Now there's a new approach. A system designed from the ground up to ensure every key person within a school has instant access to the student information they need all the time - not just reports and not just when they've been completed. Connect Ed combines relevant SAS data, reporting and other assessments to provide one centralised source of student information. Web enabled, key decision makers need only log in through their web browser and a secure log in that checks their access level and shows only information appropriate to that person's role within the school.

- Principal's can immediately check student progress when a parent calls.
- Co-ordinators have at their disposal background information and parent contact details for following up issues immediately.

- Teachers can check relevant public details on past student assessment, behavioural notes and more. Never be in the dark about past performance again.
- Excursion organisers can check and print relevant medical and other forms.
- Parents (optionally) know always how their children are progressing.

Assessment is continuous, cumulative and always represents current status since teachers input data always into one central source.
